Austin Collegiate DECA | McCombs Affiliated Student Organization

Austin Collegiate DECA is a McCombs Affiliated Student Organization at The University of Texas at Austin. Internationally, Collegiate DECA has over 15,000 members from 275 colleges and universities. At the Austin Collegiate chapter, we have over 60 members from all majors.

DECA, an internationally competitive business organization, prepares emerging leaders and entrepreneurs in careers in marketing, accounting, finance, hospitality and management, and more. Our chapter's primary function is to educate, prepare, and train our chapter members to compete at the State and International level in Collegiate DECA.

Austin Collegiate DECA invites corporations to partner with our organization as a sponsor. Your financial assistance and participation will allow our members to excel in academics, competitions, and their future careers. By sponsoring us, your donations will fund DECA's annual International Career Development Conference (ICDC) for qualifying students. ICDC gives students remarkable professional development, competitive, and networking opportunities. Additionally, ICDC allows the finalists from each region or state to compete for the International Champion title in their respective categories. However, the cost to compete has prevented many of our members from attending. Our goal is to provide each qualifying member with the opportunity to compete, regardless of his or her financial situation. Your sponsorship will make the amazing opportunity to compete a possibility for our members!

You will be able to interact with our members on a personal level to discover potential talent for recruitment and have the ability to promote your own company.
